How does the AHL break ties?

In 2004-05, the American Hockey League is re-introducing the shootout to break ties. If a game is tied after three periods, teams play a five-minute, sudden-death, four-on-four overtime period. If neither team scores, the game advances to a shootout, with each team getting five attempts. If the score remains tied, the shootout progresses to sudden-death rounds until a winner is determined.

Teams receive two points in the standings for a win (in regulation, overtime or a shootout) and one point for an overtime loss or shootout loss.

Standings will be kept in a W-L-OTL-SOL format.

Shoot-Outs in Pairadice Hockey

In a shoot-out, not only will a team score a goal based on the shooter's shot rating modified by the opponent's goalie rating, they will score a goal if the shot attempt matches a value on their opponent's logo card under Shoot-Outs. For example, if the Phantoms are in a shoot-out against the Penguins and B.J. Abel is facing Marc-Andre Fleury, B.J. Abel will score on a 2, 4, 6 based on his card and on an 8, 9, and 11 based on the Penguins Shoot-Outs rating on their logo card.
